Submission deadline: April 30, 2007

The seventh Syntax and Semantics Conference in Paris (CSSP 2007) will take place on October 4-6, 2006. CSSP welcomes papers combining empirical inquiry and formal explicitness. The conference aims at favouring comparisons between different theoretical frameworks.

CSSP conferences combine a general session and a thematic session.

- The general session is open to contributions dealing with syntax, semantics, or the syntax-semantics interface.
- The theme for the CSSP 2007 thematic session is The syntax and semantics of comparison.

Abstracts should be at most 2 pages in length and can be written in French or English. The anonymous abstracts should be sent by e-mail (plain ASCII, rtf, ps or pdf) to: info@cssp.cnrs.fr. Authors who are unable to send an electronic version should send two hard copies (one anonymous, one non-anonymous) of the abstract to:
